

Elena Caldirola - CELID

My institution

University of Pavia

About myself

Director CELID (Centre for E-Learning and Innovation in Didactics). She graduated cum laude in Political Science from the University of Pavia, achieved then the Master in Web Content Management (Multimedia University) and a Master in E-Learning Project Manager at the University of Florence. She is director of CELID (Centre for e-learning and educational innovation) at the University of Pavia. As Project Manager, coordinated the development of projects for teaching online (full/blended) aimed at both students of the University, and to the staff. She is a member of e-learning Task Force of the Coimbra Group. Speaker at various national and international conferences is the author of publications and essays.

Email: elena.caldirola@unipv.it