

Ana Salgueiro

Ana Salgueiro has a PhD in Environmental Engineer awarded by the New University of Lisbon. She is an environmental consultant with more than eighteen years of experience in environmental engineer, of which more than ten years in the design, development and management of multidisciplinary projects and teams. Founder of the consulting firm Ana Salgueiro, Consulting for Sustainability, she develops projects in the following areas: environmental risk and liability assessment, environmental risk to support the definition of the financial security amount, environmental due diligence, sustainability reports, corporate sustainability strategies, baseline reports under the Directive of industrial emissions; environmental permitting, environmental management systems and environmental impact studies. She was invited teacher of the Algarve University, and visiting Professor at Faculty of Science and Technology/ New University of Lisbon. Co-author of several papers in chapters of books and conference proceedings.